Purpose and Scope

Hotel Rosales, located in Formentera, declares its commitment to sustainability, circularity and the protection of the natural, social and cultural environment in which it operates. This policy covers all our operations, from accommodation management and food and beverage services to internal processes, relationships with suppliers and our guests' experience.

Its scope extends to all levels of the organisation, including partners and the value chain, in order to move towards a circular, responsible and resilient tourism model on the island of Formentera.

Regulatory Compliance and Continuous Improvement

We comply with all applicable environmental regulations at local, regional, national and European level, including measures relating to the sustainability and circularity of tourism in the Balearic Islands and other current provisions on waste, energy efficiency and climate change.

We are committed to continuous improvement, periodically reviewing our environmental objectives and indicators in order to reduce our ecological footprint and contribute to global sustainability goals.

Guidelines of Our Environmental Policy

Energy Efficiency and Promotion of Clean Energy

We are committed to continuously improving our energy performance by optimising processes and using energy-saving technologies. We promote the use of sustainable energy sources, convinced that a responsible energy transition is key to environmental wellbeing.

Responsible and Efficient Water Management

We regard water as a valuable and limited resource. For this reason, we promote efficient water use through reuse systems, low-consumption technologies and practices that reduce waste. Our aim is to minimise the water impact of our operations, ensuring the rational, controlled and sustainable use of this resource.

Waste Reduction

We are committed to reducing waste generation at source, prioritising the use of reusable, recyclable and biodegradable products across all our operations. Through our waste management plan, we work to minimise the environmental impact of our activities, promoting reuse and recycling as pillars of responsible management of the materials we use.

Culture of Continuous Environmental Improvement

We adopt a dynamic, proactive approach to improving our environmental performance, setting measurable goals and reviewing them regularly. Innovation, training and technology help us remain a sustainability benchmark in hospitality.

Environmental Risk Management and Prevention

We proactively identify and manage the potential environmental risks arising from our activities. We are committed to preventing, minimising and, wherever possible, eliminating all forms of pollution by implementing the measures required to protect the environment. This approach enables us to act effectively and adapt with resilience to current and future environmental challenges.

Transparency and Community Engagement

Hotel Rosales Formentera promotes open and honest communication about its environmental actions, encouraging the involvement of employees, guests and suppliers. We will periodically publish our progress and keep this policy accessible to all stakeholders.

Ongoing Commitment

Hotel Rosales Formentera considers sustainability a strategic pillar of its management. This policy represents our firm commitment to protecting the environment, regenerating the local area and supporting the wellbeing of future generations, actively contributing to more conscious, circular and resilient tourism in Formentera.
